Dear Judge Caproni:

We write on behalf of all the plaintiffs (collectively, "Vessel Interests") in the above-captioned matters to object to the relief requested in the filing made by NuStar Energy Services, Inc. ("NuStar") and U.S. Oil Trading LLC ("USOT") on February 13, 2015.¹

In December 2014, the Court, on its own initiative (rather than as a result of motion practice) requested that the parties brief a particular question concerning the Court's interpleader jurisdiction and power to issue injunctive relief. (Doc. 8 at ¶2). The Court ordered that such briefs "shall be limited to 10 pages." Pursuant to that schedule NuStar and USOT filed a 10-page memorandum on January 14, 2015, and Defendant ING filed its own brief on that same date. Thereafter, Vessel Interests filed their joint 10-page memorandum, and the Debtors filed their own brief.

With their February 13, 2015, filing, NuStar and USOT have now moved for leave to file a joint "reply" memorandum of law (Doc. No. 44) as well as a memorandum in support of the motion (Doc. 45). They also included with their filing a copy of the proposed reply memorandum (Doc. No. 44-1), which consists of an additional 10-pages of argument (in addition to their original memorandum). Vessel Interests oppose their request.

Turning first to the memorandum in support, the only authority offered by NuStar and USOT in support of the motion is a reference to Local Rule 6.1(b)(3) which concerns the submission of memoranda in motion practice. The citation is inapposite as the particular matter before the Court is not a motion. Simply put, the Court directed the parties to brief a specific question (see Doc. 8 at ¶2, pp. 4-5). As directed by the Court, certain specified parties conferred and proposed a briefing schedule which was then approved by the Court (see Doc. 21 at p. 6).

Under the procedural stance of this case, the Vessel Interests respectfully submit that the parties have done as the Court ordered: the denominated issue has been briefed within the page limits set by the Court and neither NuStar nor USOT is entitled to make further submissions.

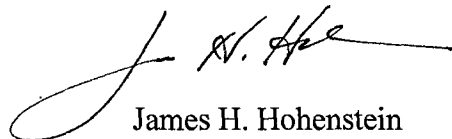

Further, the Vessel Interests also specifically take issue with NuStar's and USOT's unilateral submission of their "reply" memorandum as an exhibit to their notice of motion. We submit that the submission of the memorandum itself is inappropriate and should be stricken.

We also note NuStar's and USOT's objection to the Debtors'² submission on this issue (Doc. 71 in 14 Civ. 9720). It should be recalled that on the same day as NuStar and USOT submitted their joint brief (Doc. 32), claimant-defendant ING Bank N.V. ("ING") also made a submission (Doc. 35). No party has objected to ING's submission. As a practical matter, while the interests of Vessel Interests and the Debtors may have aligned on certain issues (such as the question briefed here), the generally adverse position between Vessel Interests (innocent stakeholders-plaintiffs) and the Debtors (claimants-defendants) in these litigations dictate that a common brief would not have been practical. That said, given the key issue presented by the question presented, Vessel Interests submit that it is relevant and helpful for the Court to hear from all the key stakeholders, i.e., the non-Debtor physical suppliers, ING, Debtors as well as the Vessel Interests.

Finally, if the Court decides to grant the relief requested and accept NuStar's and USOT's memorandum, then Vessel Interests respectfully request leave to submit a further memorandum (of no more than 10 pages in length) within a reasonable period of time (say two weeks from the date of the Court's Order).

We thank the Court for its attention to these matters.

Respectfully submitted,

James H. Hohenstein
